The screenshot shows the Archiver 3.0.9 MacOS application interface. At the top, there is a menu bar with options like "Preferences", "Quick tour", "Code settings", "Create group", "Delete group", "Edit group", "Reorder groups", "Highlight", "Unhighlight", "Copy code", and "Replace". Below the menu bar, there is a "Code groups" section with a search bar containing "Swift General" and a count of "130". To the right of this is a "CODEBLUE" logo with the tagline "Managing and organizing programming snippets".

The main area is titled "Code snippets" and features a search bar with the text "2 or more letters" and a "Search" button. On the left, there is a list of snippet titles, with "Array.flatMap" highlighted in orange. The main content area displays the code for the selected snippet, which is Swift code for using `flatMap` to filter out optional elements from an array. The code includes several examples and is annotated with green lines and text:

- A green arrow points from the text "List of groups" to the "Code groups" search bar.
- A green arrow points from the text "Highlighted code snippet title" to the "Array.flatMap" title in the left sidebar.
- A green arrow points from the text "syntax-highlighted tag" to the `return nil` tag in the code.

At the bottom of the screenshot, there is a large white text overlay on a dark background that reads: "Organize programming code snippets across different groups".
